DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by McCoy.

The patent to McCoy teaches structure as claimed including shelf (5), two L-shaped brackets having a vertical leg (15), horizontal leg (16), fasteners (fig. 4), hook portion (17).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 6, 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McCoy. The patent to McCoy teaches structure substantially as claimed, as discussed above, including a shelf hooked onto a vertical supporting surface, the only difference being that the vertical supporting surface is not part of a fryer unit. However, a structure is entitled to all of its uses. It would have been obvious and well within the level of ordinary skill in the art to modify the structure of McCoy to be hung on a fryer unit since McCoy teaches the provision of an auxiliary work surface, thereby providing structure as claimed. Further, the use of additional worksurfaces for a cooking appliance is well known and commercially available. Applicant is given judicial notice of such.

Claims 3-5, 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McCoy as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Compton. The patent to McCoy teaches structure substantially as claimed, as discussed above, including a shelf, the only difference being that there is not a peripheral barrier to prevent articles from falling off. However, the patent to Compton (fig. 1) teaches the use of providing a peripheral guard to prevent articles from falling off. It would have been obvious and well within the level of ordinary skill in the art to modify the structure of McCoy to include peripheral guards, as taught by Compton, since such structures are conventional alternative structures used in the same intended purpose, thereby providing structure as claimed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Lederman, O'Connor, Hughes, Thomson, Fradl,

Art Unit: 3637

Sampson et al, Peterson, Miller et al, Morales, Shumaker teach structure similar to applicant's.
